Contemporary style is all about the latest designs, materials and finishes. The contemporary home is sleek and unique, with plenty of clean lines, and glossy surfaces.

Modern concept

There is ample use of glass, mirrors, crisp clean white or vast dark and moody tones in large open plan spaces. On-trend materials such as copper or smooth wood and modern, bold lighting features provide the focal point in a contemporary home. Tile designs are a huge part of this look because they serve as a canvas from which all the other design features will shine.

Neutral Tones

It is the colours which really makes a contemporary home, so give your home an on-trend feel with some of our stunning neutral tone tiles. They are designed to convey a sense of space so that you can work to creatively personalise your home in any way you feel. Whether this is through the expansive use of colour or texture or both. A contemporary home uses these elements in original, eye-catching ways to create energy and personality in an otherwise pared-back scheme.

Curve appeal

A contemporary home looks modern, sleek and is very much up-to-date with design features. It revels in the open-plan living and is pared back and clutter free but is nothing without the accompaniment of a beautiful floor and wall tile. Adding gentle curves will bring contrast to clean, sharp lines and accentuate the modern accessories in your home.

Contemporary Pattern

Patterned tiles are very much the centrepiece of the room – and the bolder the pattern, the less they will like having to compete for attention with another pattern.

For a patterned floor to really stand out and be the 'star of the show', simple, neutral furniture and accessories are the best bedfellows.

Bringing the outdoors in...

If you have plans to create a fantastic modern outdoor space, then porcelain tiles are perfect for the job, providing a stylish and hard-wearing alternative to traditional paving slabs or wooden decking. Plus, you can avoid all the maintenance which normally accompanies outdoor flooring, making it easy to keep your outside space looking its best.
